

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

AEP Foundation Donates To PHCC Foundation

The American Electric Power [AEP] Foundation, a charitable organization which aims to improve lives through education, awarded Patrick Henry Community College a grant for nearly two-hundred thousand dollars.

With the grant, the college established the AEP Foundation Industry 4.0 Alliance. The Alliance is made up of industry leaders and community partners who support the growth and expansion of Industry 4.0 training at PHCC. The Alliance, which is headlined by the AEP Foundation, also includes NC3 and Festo – industry leaders in advanced manufacturing – and community partners such as The Harvest Foundation. The college anticipates that more partners will be joining the newly formed alliance soon.

The first objective for the Alliance was to help PHCC launch Industry 4.0 level two training to prepare graduates to work with cloud computing and cyber-physical technologies. The grant money from the AEP Foundation and donations from other members of the Alliance will cover some of the startup costs and equipment purchases PHCC will need to begin offering Industry 4.0 level two certification training. The college has been offering the Industry 4.0 level one certification since August 2018.

The concept for Industry 4.0 training was developed just last year by NC3 in partnership with Festo and leaders in other advanced manufacturing industries. Training for this emerging career field is so new that PHCC is one of only two other colleges in the nation to offer all level 1 certifications. Presently, PHCC is the only training facility in America that now offers the Industry 4.0 level 2 and level 3 certifications.

“Thanks to the support of our AEP Foundation Industry 4.0 Alliance partners, PHCC is able to rapidly respond to industry innovation. You cannot get more up-to-date and relevant than this level of training,” says PHCC instructor Daniel Edwards. “Being on the cutting edge of industry developments means our students know how to work with, run, and troubleshoot some of the most advanced equipment in the industry. They are setting themselves apart in a major way – putting on their resume exactly the skills that local employers are looking for.”

For the students, earning an Industry 4.0 level 2 or 3 certification could mean more job offers to higher paying jobs and faster career advancement. Locally, employers like Mehler Engineered Products, Eastman, Georgia Pacific, and Hanesbrands are already seeking employees who have the level 2 skills. Locally, positions that require level 2 or 3 certifications typically pay more than $40,000 a year.

“Getting certified in Industry 4.0 level 1 has already proven highly beneficial to our students,” says Edwards. “Now, we are literally taking it to a whole new level. The jobs they’ll be able to get and the pay they can make will increase with each level we can offer. What we’re doing thanks to the AEP Foundation Industry 4.0 Alliance will have an incredible impact in our students’ lives – opening doors to the middle class.”

SPIRIT OF OUR COLLEGE

Dr. Angeline Godwin
PHCC President

#PatriotProud. #PHamily. @patrickhenrycc. These social media hashtags pop up regularly in our Facebook, Twitter and Instagram postings for Patrick Henry Community College. While they are catchy and fun, they also embody the spirit of our college. We are moving closer to our upcoming 60th Anniversary in 2022, and every year, hundreds of individuals become Patriots. Each one leaves a mark on our college and community, adding value simply because they were a part of our lives and our work.

The Patrick Henry Community College Foundation gives each of us an opportunity to create a legacy that nurtures intellectual and professional growth, that fosters personal and economic well-being, and that enriches individual and community prosperity. Each donor creates that legacy, whether the gift funds a one-month supply of food for our Patriot Pantry, a nursing uniform, a welder's helmet, a semester's book list, the student emergency fund, a Patriot Player's production, a specific athletic sport, the full tuition and fees for a year's enrollment, the naming of a classroom, or even, a building, an endowed scholarship that lives on in perpetuity, or a host of other needs and worthy causes.

Each donor's gift is an investment in the future of an individual student, our college, and our community. We are extremely grateful for the generous support that allows us to do our life's work and to watch students' lives and their entire families be enriched and forever changed for the positive. Your contribution speaks volumes about your confidence and commitment, which is why we are indeed #PatriotProud, and yes, we collectively serve together as a #PHamily.

GREAT THINGS

Tiffani Underwood
Executive Director,
PHCC Foundation

Great things are happening at Patrick Henry Community College! The college is expanding, parking lots are overflowing, the Patriot Players are performing to sold out crowds, our athletic teams are competing on the national level and PHCC was recently named the first institution in the country to offer Level 3 training in Industry 4.0, putting our students on the cutting edge of advanced manufacturing technology.

This is all thanks to the generosity of supporters like you who believe in Patrick Henry Community College.

We are so fortunate to have a giving community of individuals, businesses and organizations who have stepped up to provide much needed resources to support our students and the valuable programs we offer here at PHCC. Because of you, we are educating and empowering our students to not only get an education and get a job, but to fulfill their dreams.

As we continue to prepare our students for success, we are thankful for all those who have supported our mission through your gifts. Your donations have provided program support, scholarships, state of the art equipment and expanded facilities to ensure our students have the tools and resources they need to succeed. Thank you for investing in our students and thank you for trusting the Patrick Henry Community College Foundation with your precious resources. Together, we are making a difference and truly touching lives across our community.

The Patrick Henry Community College Foundation is a not-for profit organization that is fiscally and organizationally separate from the college. Its goal is to enhance community awareness of Patrick Henry Community College; to secure contributions, bequests and donations; and to account for, manage and help appreciate monies or property submitted to the Foundation.

Our goal is to help students gain access to affordable, quality education. Help us make that dream a reality by contributing to the PHCC Foundation.

NOTEWORTHY

Edwards Named Teaching Faculty Of The Year

Every year, Patrick Henry Community College (PHCC) recognizes one outstanding instructor as the Teaching Faculty Member of the Year. The chosen instructor is recognized for making a tremendous impact on the campus and in students' lives and receives a $2000 cash prize and a significant professional development stipend from the Patrick Henry Community College Foundation.

Daniel Edwards; Teaching Faculty of the Year

During the college's commencement ceremony, this year's award was presented to Daniel Edwards the college's Instructor of Industrial Electronics Technology.

Edwards was instrumental in implementing the Mechatronics program at PHCC in 2013. Since the program's inception, it has grown explosively – issuing over 300 national certifications. For six years in a row, Edward's program has maintained a 100% passing rate. Every student that has taken the national industry certification exam has passed.

This past year, Edwards was influential in coordinating the college's partnership with the National Coalition of Certification Centers [NC3] and Festo. These partnerships have provided his students with numerous opportunities to gain skills and credentials that are in high demand by local employers. Because of the caliber of the program that Edwards has built, a multitude of employers from around the region are actively seeking to recruit his graduates.

"Daniel Edwards exemplifies everything that is good about PHCC's faculty," says Colin Ferguson Dean of Science Technology Engineering, Math – Health and Applied Programs. "He is there for his students. His graduates are successful. He is fully dedicated to student success. He deserves to be recognized."

Michelle Zollars, an Associate Professor of Developmental English, was recognized as PHCC Distinguished Faculty of 2019 and received $750 from the PHCC Foundation for her commitment to student success.

Zollars' role at the college extends well beyond the classroom. From training adjunct faculty members to redesigning policies to increase student engagement, she consistently goes above and beyond to ensure her students and her fellow instructors have everything they need to make PHCC an excellent learning environment.

Martha Lou Henry Scholarship

Every nurse has the opportunity to change lives for the better. It would not be possible to estimate the number of lives Martha Lou Henry touched over her lifetime. For over four decades, she served as a nurse at Children's Medical Center in Martinsville, VA. After she passed away in 2018, she set into place a legacy that will continue to impact the community and change lives for the better for many years to come.

To benefit the area's future nurses, Henry left over $50,000 to Patrick Henry Community College. The donation will be used to create the Martha Lou Henry Endowed Nursing Scholarship which will be awarded yearly to eligible nursing students. Recipients will be able to use the scholarship for tuition, textbooks, testing fees, uniforms, or supplies. Henry's donation also includes a $10,000 allowance for immediate student needs within the nursing program.

"What a wonderful gift for our students to receive from a nurse who has served the community for many years," says Tiffani Underwood, Executive Director of the PHCC Foundation. "By passing on her nursing legacy in this way, Martha is providing a wonderful opportunity for our students - opening doors for them to pursue bright futures."

"PHCC provides our area with nurses who demonstrate professionalism. We are fortunate to have this program in our community," says Brewer who was a long-time friend of Martha Lou Henry. "It means a lot to me that Martha's memory will live on through these nursing students."
